OUR STORIES, ONE JOURNEY: EMPOWERING RURAL WOMEN IN ASIA

For six months, the travelling journal has recorded daily entries of eight rural women for ten days in eight different countries. They did it through writing, drawing, poetry and composing songs in one journal. Their message was simple: help transform agriculture into a more equitable, fair and sustainable system.

The travelling journal, written in local languages, is a powerful medium for rural women to assert their leadership and rights to land, food and resources, and their voices to be heard by those who shape national and international policies.
